EMPHATIC "NO" IS ANSWER OF CONGRESS TO DEBT PLEAS OF BRITAIN AND FRANCE

ROOSEVELT ASKED FOR NON-POLITICAL LIQUIDATING BOARD

Shippers Call on President-Elect, Tell Him Trade Is Demoralized Because of Cotton Held by Government.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES FOR EAST TUESDAY

Vacation Shortened by Calling of Special Session of New York Legislature, Opening Friday.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 2.—(P)—An hour-long discussion of the cotton situation, during which he was asked that a non-partisan liquidating agency dispose of governmental cotton, was held yesterday by Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was turning his thoughts to an early departure for Albany.

A delegation of cotton merchants, several of whom were officials of the American Cotton Shippers' Association, and all of whom said they were acting in an individual capacity, called in the afternoon for a long talk with the president-elect. They remained until well after dark and their talk covered the whole cotton situation.

Their conference came after an announcement that Mr. Roosevelt would leave Warm Springs on next Tuesday afternoon for the journey back to Albany. His sudden plans for an early departure came after he had received word of a decision by Acting Governor Lehman to call a special session of the New York legislature to enact legislation which would permit New York city to cut the salaries of city employees.

The president-elect, suddenly shifting back into the role of the governor of New York, planned a trip that would take him through Atlanta late Tuesday afternoon and then on to the main line of the Southern railway through Washington to New York city. He will spend Wednesday night there and journey to Albany on the following Friday.

The special session of the legislature will be opened Friday.

The day also brought Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who spent virtually the entire afternoon in conference with Mr. Roosevelt. Bingham has been frequently mentioned in the last several weeks for an ambassadorial assignment, and he also during this long time has been interested in the development of tobacco co-operative marketing associations in his home state of Kentucky. He came at the request of Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Cutting of New Mexico, one of the republican independents who supported Mr. Roosevelt in the primaries, was expected to arrive late afternoon but did not arrive. A talk with him was expected to be had tomorrow. Mr. Roosevelt declined today to say what he expected to discuss with Cutting.

Cotton Shippers' Stress.

The cotton shippers' delegation was composed by T. F. Bush of Waco, Texas; E. W. Porter of Memphis; C. W. Butler of Memphis; J. W. Garrow of Houston, and Dameron H. Williams of Gastonia, N. C.

During their discussion they told the president-elect that the cotton farmer was in a serious predicament because of the low price of cotton.

Girl Sees Grandfather Kill Grandmother, Self
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(P)—Five-year-old Norma Smeby today witnessed the murder and suicide of her grandmother and grandfather. Pistols bullets terminated the broken romance of Conley Mampower, 52, and his wife, Mabel, 50.

"I got out of bed and went to the kitchen to wash my hands and face," the little girl told police between sobs.

Grandpa was sitting down in the kitchen on a chair.

"I heard Jim tell grandma he had been drinking all around the city. She was in the pantry getting something for breakfast."

"All of a sudden grandpa jumped up. He had a gun in his hand. He shot grandma in the back, two times.

"Then he shot himself in the head and fell down by grandma."

HOOVER REBUFFS WOMEN SEEKING AID FOR MARCHERS

President Declines To Hear Social Registerites as Plans To Care for Jobless Collapse.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(P)—Nine women, seeking presidential help for the demonstrators now marching on Washington, found today the social register holds no key to the chief executive's office.

The group, including several of social prominence, filed into the office of Theodore Joslin, President Hoover's secretary, only to be told it would be impossible for them to see the vice president-elect.

While the delegation sought a word with Mr. Hoover, the plans of Herbert Benjamin, one of the sponsors of the march, to feed and house the group collapsed. Food supplies which Benjamin had talked of earlier in the week failed to reach his passengers. A vacant warehouse, on which he had depended for shelter, was found already occupied by none less than the federal government itself.

He appealed to several local church leaders for shelter, but gave up that idea when they did not seem to take kindly to it.

In view of his difficulties, Benjamin postponed from Monday until Tuesday his promised demonstrations in which the marchers will attempt to break down doors of congress. Monday's program will be limited to a mass meeting and organization.

Two Meriwether Men Asked to Inauguration

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 2.—The honor of receiving the first official invitation to the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt has gone to Sheriff Jake Jarrell and Judge Henry Revill, of Meriwether county, jointly.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the official inauguration committee, who has been keeping the two men in touch with the incoming democratic executive over details of the induction ceremony, invited the two Meriwether county officials today after hearing them tell Chairman James A. Farley, of the democratic national committee, that they had never been to Washington and had never seen a president of the United States.

COMMITTEE'S VOTE WILL NOT SHELVE REPEAL PROPOSAL

House Judiciary Body Decides Not To Sponsor Move, But Garner Says He Will Have Ballot.

BY CECIL B. DICKSON.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(P)—Speaker Garner said tonight he was going to "keep faith" with the American people and bring prohibition repeal to a vote Monday in the house despite the refusal of the judiciary committee to sanction his plan.

The vice president-elect made this announcement after he had been informed by Chairman Summers that the judiciary committee voted, 13 to 6, against authorizing him to submit the democratic flat repeal resolution for a vote under a suspension of the rules.

Speaker Summers declined to bring up the proposal. Garner said, "he will ask Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the democratic floor leader, to offer it on the floor." Rainey agreed.

"I'm going to keep faith with the American people," Garner said. "No man living ever can say that have not kept faith with my friends and neighbors. This time my constituency is the American people and I am going to keep faith, regardless of what others do."

Opposes Procedure.

Called to meet by Summers to pass on giving the house authority to submit the proposal Monday, and the procedure proposed debate in 40 minutes and preventing any amendments, the judiciary committee refused permission. The motion was made by Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York.

Seven democrats, all from southern states, joined six republicans in de-

The Atlanta-Cumming project calls for the paving of 9.9 miles of roadway and will leave only that section of the road lying within the Forsyth county limits unpared.

There are four other paving projects. They include:

Paving of 14.1 miles of roadway in Colquitt county on the Moultrie-Cumming highway, beginning near Moultrie and ending at the Tift county line.

2 Atlanta Women To Receive $80,000 Each in Aunt's Will

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—(P)—Two Atlanta (Ga.) women will receive more than $80,000 each from the estate of Mrs. Lucretia Block Meyersburg, who died here Sunday night.

Mrs. Frank C. Block and Mrs. Nellie Block Bancker will share with four other, in the residuary estate of their aunt, who was the widow of Theodore A. Meyersburg, head of the Tadco Iron Works at East St. Louis, the Republic Iron & Steel Co.

Atkins' will contained bequests and expenses amounting to about $100,000, the residuary estate is expected to be about $500,000.

Eleven persons receive $5,000 each under Mrs. Meyersburg's will, several Others sharing in the main estate are Miss Elizabeth Hull, St. Louis, relative by marriage; Mrs. Robert Barclay and Mrs. Leo Biesemeyer, both of St. Louis, no relation, and Mrs. Mary L. Cote, of Hillboro, N. H., a cousin.

Mrs. Biesemeyer, a young widow and mother of two children, was Mrs. Meyersburg's traveling companion in recent years. Her husband died only about a month ago, and her second son was born two days later. Notice of the legacy reached her at a time Annoyed because she did not return home Friday night after he had visited her at Grady hospital where she was a patient, J. G. Davis, 40, of 125 Boulevard drive, S. E., fatally cut himself with a razor in the back yard of their home Friday morning and slashed his wife about the throat in an effort to kill her. Mrs. Davis, 38, mother of seven children, was in a serious condition at Grady hospital Friday night.

Davis had been out of work for two weeks, his wife told police officers, but his attempt to kill her, she said, was due more to a jealous rage than to despondency. She said that she believed brooding over his financial condition had affected his mind.

According to Mrs. Davis, her husband went to see her at the hospital Thursday night and asked her to return home to him. She told officers that he was furious when he talked with her and accused her of being too friendly with other men and, because of his maddened condition, she remained overnight.

Friday morning, she related from her hospital bed, Davis came home and prepared a meal which Davis ate. He was quick to renew his quarrel with her the night before and asked: "Did you have a good time?"

Not getting any reply, he picked up a pistol from under the bed on which she was resting and announced: "I'm going to see that you get enough sleep now—a long, sweet sleep."

Mrs. Davis jumped from the bed and ran into the yard where her mother, Mrs. Mattie Hunt, helped her.

43 CITY FIREMEN WILL LOSE POSTS

LEHMAN SUMMONS
ECONOMY SESSION

Legislature To Provide for Reduction of Expenses for N. Y. City.

BY WALTER T. BROWN.
ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(P)—New York's 201 legislators today were called to an extraordinary session to cut away restrictions preventing New York city from reducing salaries and affecting other economies.

After a long conference with New York's mayor, Joseph V. McKee; his compatriot, Charles W. Berry, and several of the city's powerful financial figures, who pass upon loans to the city, Acting Governor Lehman at 3 a. m. today announced his decision to call the legislature for December 15.

The bankers, Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City bank, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, of the Chase National, insisted the city could not borrow money unless a reduction of expenses was made possible by a lowering of salaries.

Lehman's call for the legislature cut short the Georgia vacation of Governor Roosevelt and opened the way for upstate counties and cities that they too, be permitted to curtail expenses through the elimination of laws binding their fixed expenditures.

The fire department savings made Friday afternoon by the finance committee cut 20 men from the pay rolls through elimination of staff. Not another was taken through elimination of five two men from the arson squad, three fire inspectors, a hydraulics inspector and a fire chief.

Mr. Lehman's legislative call was so generally phrased as to make it possible for the chief executive to present any issue to the legislature. The lawmakers, however, may take up only those subjects called to their attention.

Financiers have insisted that New York's 1933 budget be reduced by $20,000,000 before further loans would be made.

for disarmament and improvement of trade relations before asking debt relief.

Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, who has advocated a world conference on disarmament, debts, reparations and economics, asserted in a formal statement that the war debts over this country were only one cause of the world's trouble.

"It is unfair to ask the American taxpayers to contribute their part for the removal of these causes and leave behind causes which will make their contributions wholly ineffective," Borah said.

The French note, which arrived last night, contended that the appeal for debt relief was but a natural sequel to President Hoover's one-year moratorium. It threatened French reversion of the Lausanne agreement on reparations and argued that his agreement was a "program" of the meeting, as it was between President Hoover and Premier Laval.

Tonight the issue again seemed to be up to the European debtors—either to pay or default on December 15. The president has asked this payment of them in agreeing to urgent creation by committee of an agency to review the debt situation.

Interest Payment.

Senator Bankhead, Alabama, suggested that an understanding be reached for payment of the interest on December 15, with an extension on the contract amount due pending an effort to work out a satisfactory method of paying foreign debts with the gold or dollars which can be paid without so definitely and injuriously affecting our basic farm commodity prices.

There was no party division on the question in congress. Republicans and democrats joined in reiterating their opposition to additional relief. They also struck back at the British suggestion of a higher tariff wall against the United States.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, said: "If Great Britain desires to carry out the plan suggested, she has a perfect right to do it, but in my opinion she will be the sufferer instead of the United States."

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking democrat on the committee, said: "Threats of stringent regulations of exchange or increased retaliatory measures will not affect the sober judgment of the American people against cancellation or postponement."

Representative Snell, of New York, the republican leader, said: "I am not disturbed about any special tariff retaliation. They will buy, as always, where they can buy cheapest."

McCuller Speaks.

The British and French intimations of last summer was an outgrowth of understandings reached in this government during the fall of Senator McCuller, Democrat, Tennessee.

"I observe," he said, "in Britain not the following:

"The initiative in devising a settlement of reparations was taken by the creditor governments of Germany and Austria with the cognizance and approval of the United States government."

"Compare this remarkable statement with the statement of President Hoover in his letter to Senator Borah of last July 15, as follows:

"I wish to make it absolutely clear, however, that the United States has not been consulted regarding any of the arrangements, and the interest in this has been concluded recently at Lausanne, and that of course it is not a party to nor in any way committed to any such agreements."

McCuller then asked: "President Hoover's statement is true or is the statement of Mr. MacDonald, speaking through the embassy, true?"

"It is a question of veracity between them."

Senators Copeland, democrat, New York, and Dickinson, republican, Iowa, joined in declaring for European disarmament before debt relief.

FRANCE ANXIOUSLY WAITS.

REPLY FROM UNITED STATES.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—France sat back tonight and anxiously awaited America's reply to the second French request for postponement of her war debt installments due this month.

Officials and public opinion as expressed by the press manifested this anxiety during the day. Premier Herriot had a long talk with Henri Berenger, president of the foreign affairs committee of the senate, and it was said afterward that the debt situation, especially America's reception of the note which was delivered in Washington today, was the main topic of discussion.

The tone of the note was generally praised in the press tonight which said that the next move was up to the United States.

French members of the documents solidly constructed and asked that America's reaction would be to "the gout sense and to the heart of the people of the United States."

Times further declared that the debt question is now a matter of attempting to avoid compromising the confidence which grew out of the Lausanne agreement.

The newspaper L'Information, leading financial organ, suggested that one way to wipe out the debt would be to modify the Lausanne agreement so that Germany would take over in the United States the 3,000,000,000 reichsmarks which Germany agreed at Lausanne to pay as reparations after a period of three years. The paper said that this sum could be raised immediately by a loan floated in France, Great Britain and the United States.

The general theme throughout the Press was that the Lausanne accords might be jeopardized if the United States insisted upon payment and that the general development of policies leading toward a return of prosperity and toward the organization of peace faced destruction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Great Britain's warning that American foreign trade would suffer if war debts payments are resumed is not construed by economists as meaning specifically that the United States.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP) Governor James Rolph Jr., in a statement today said in effect he was through with the Mooney case. The statement was made after the governor returned from San Francisco, where he had conferred with his legal counsel, Matt L. Sullivan, a former justice of the state supreme court, who has made a special study of the plea of Tom Mooney, convicted San Francisco murderer, Preparedness Day bomber.

The statement of the governor:

"I have read the letter of November 22 to me by the national Mooney-Billings committee and also the letter of the same date to Judge Matt L. Sullivan. I also read the reply of Sullivan to the president of the committee.

"I agree with the report of Sullivan of April 21 and also the answer to the letter to him by the 15 signers which was also published in the press.

There is nothing further to do in this case. In other words, it closes the Mooney case as far as I am concerned."

Sullivan's report of April 21 recommended Governor Rolph deny Tom Mooney's plea for a pardon. Sullivan's reply to the letter from his supporters in the east who had attacked his position on the Mooney case described his eastern critics as "parlor Bolsheviks" accommodating publicity seekers, intellectual irresponsible and tricky special pleaders."

The letter signed by the 15 accused Sullivan of misleading the governor in his investigation of the Preparedness Day bomber's conviction.

Fair, Warmer Today; November Set Record

With the coldest November weather since 1926 behind, Atlanta may look for continued fair weather and moderate temperatures today, according to George Mindling, United States meteorologist. Today's temperature should range from 45 degrees to 65 degrees.

Friday the temperature ranged from 47 to 63 degrees, bringing still further relief from the cold snap which gripped the city and the whole south last week-end. Forecaster Mindling said Friday that the month of November should end up an average temperature of 47.8 degrees, which is lower than the average temperature of any month last winter.

In fact, it was the coldest month of 1932, the next closest being March with an average of 48.5 degrees. Even January and February of this year had averages all slightly over 50 degrees. The coldest November ever recorded by the local weather bureau was in 1911, when an even 47 degrees was recorded. In the November did not fail to equal his record but failed by two-tenths of a degree, recording a 47.2 average.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION DON'T CONFLICT—HESS

Science and religion are not in conflict, says Dr. Aubrey F. Hess, pastor of the United Methodist church, 630 W. Peachtree street. Dr. Hess will have for his Sunday morning topic, "From Dust to Man."

"Evolution," he says, "confirms rather than contradicts belief in God. Evolution when rightly understood supports essential religious belief. Science and religion are not in conflict, but unscientific beliefs of the scientist and religious do conflict. Science proves man's origin was from the dust. Man needs his religious beliefs backed by gripping evidence, if it is to meet his need in doubt and fear."

GEORGIA TO NAME 1,800 'J. P.'S' TODAY

Scores of Hotly Contested Races Have Developed in Various Militia Districts.

Georgia this year already having elected a governor, two United States senators, state officials, a majority of members of the legislature, not to mention helping elect a president and choosing hundreds of county and city officials, goes to the polls again today in a general election, this time to select about 1,800 justices of the peace.

The "J. P." election, a quadrangular affair, while it does not bring out the political conflicts which can be seen in the developed scenes of hotly contested races in the various militia districts. The justices chosen today will take office on January 1 and serve for the following four years.

The election will be held in every militia district in the state, save in Chatman and Muscogee counties and two districts in DeKalb county, which has abolished the J. P. courts by constitutional amendment.

Fulton, like other counties, is having its share of contests, perhaps in some instances more than its share. Many of the 21 districts also are choosing constables and these races are causing considerable attention.

EXTRA SESSION APPEARS LIKELY

Hoover Presses for Legislation To Save 700 Millions To Balance Budget.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Republican and democratic legislative programs focusing on the fiscal and farm relief problems took shape Thursday in conference at the White House and on Capitol Hill. The conclusion that an extra session of the new congress next spring will be necessary.

Divergent views developed between the administration and the democrats on methods of wiping out the mounting treasury deficit and troubles also were in store on the farm measures.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a final drive to make economies do much of the work of matching expenditures and income. He was still considering a recommendation for new tax legislation, probably the sales levy, to complete the job.

Sen. George W. Norris of Arkansas, the democratic leader, returned from a conference with President-elect Roosevelt and suggested that the budget be balanced by economies, a tax on legalized beer and possibly by resorting to a flat issue to pay the cost of selfliquidating government construction projects.

Robinson expressed the hope that sufficient work could be accomplished at the three month's session of congress beginning Monday to avoid an extra session in the spring. He had Chairman of the Senate's House banking committee, another recent visitor with Governor Roosevelt, doubted that this program could be accomplished before March 4.

Seeking his goal of a $700,000,000 reduction in the government budget for 1933, the democrats were canvassing every avenue of economy and was reported by some congressional leaders to be looking upon a flat pay cut for federal workers as one method. This, however, was not verified at the White House.

UNIFORM AIR LAWS SOUGHT FOR STATES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Problems of regulating and encouraging aviation in the various states were discussed by state officials and leaders in the aviation industry here today at business sessions of the annual convention of the national association of state aviation officials.

quet tonight.

A state policy of recognizing federal licensing of pilots and planes was suggested by P. A. Wright, of Detroit, vice president of Trans-American step toward standardization of uniform aviation laws and coordinated regulation of aviation in the various states.

He suggested that state funds be used to provide intermediate landing fields, weather reports, radio range beacons, light beacons, markings on buildings and roads, and to publish accurate state maps at regular intervals.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A southern two-day regional conference of the American Political Science Association began here today for discussion of modern political problems of government and taxation.

The conference, with "local government and taxation" its general key-sociology at the University of North Carolina, and Dr. William F. Ogburn,

Irving Bacheller, Famous American Writer, Here To Attend Alpha Tau Omega Conclave

Attending the conclave of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the Biltmore hotel, which began Friday morning and will end tonight with a banquet at the hotel, is Irving Bacheller, distinguished author and founder of the chapter at St. Lawrence University, seated. Inset are Roy Rogers and Gene Parker of the Georgia Tech chapter. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Irving Bacheller, author of "Eben Holden," "Dri and I," "Silas Strong," "The Great War," and recently gone by war, was in Atlanta Friday attending the conclave of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, of which, at 73, Mr. Bacheller is still an enthusiastic member.

Mr. Bacheller founded a chapter of the fraternity at St. Lawrence University, New York, in 1888. This chapter and others that followed it in the east were installed with the idea of encouraging young men, as Mr. Bacheller expressed it, "to lower the bloody shirt."

"There was much waving of the bloody shirt at that time," he explained. "We were fresh from a school of war and many were returning from the front. The founding of these fraternities, and the address by Henry Grady before the New England Society in New York, greatly reduced the feeling of rancor between the north and south."

Mr. Bacheller was high in his praise of Grady and the Joel Chandler Harris school of literature.

"What a brilliant group of men The Constitution assembled," he said. Mr. Bacheller's contact with the south became active when, in 1917, he home in Connecticut was burned. It cost so much to build at that time that he sold it after his home and moved to Winter Park, Fla., where he has lived every winter since.

"I was really one of the originators of the Florida boom," he said. "I invested about $100,000 in a development on the west coast in 1922. The amount was exaggerated in the various accounts of it. Other developments followed suit."

"I have just finished a story of the Florida boom. It will run serially in the Christian Herald, after which it will appear in book form."

Speaking of writing, Mr. Bacheller said he had made a distinct change not so much in style as in spirit.

The popularity of Freud, followed later by that of Shaw and other writers who emphasized sex, led to an epidemic of sex stories. The ladies seem to like this sort of thing.

"I was unfortunate in writing a popular success. To write an American novel," Mr. Bacheller explained.

Pulitzer laughed. "All right, go ahead."

The great American novel was a success, Mr. Bacheller never returned to the World after his three months expired, and now, after more than 30 years, he is still technically on leave."

Mr. Bacheller will make a talk to-night at the fraternity banquet at the Biltmore hotel. Friday's session was devoted mainly to business discussions of the chapter, the financing of chapter houses. There was a conclave dance at the Biltmore Friday night. Today there will be a business meeting at 10 o'clock, followed by a luncheon and the banquet, at which Mr. Bacheller and Judge Claude T. Reno, of Allentown, Pa., worthy grand, will speak.

ALABAMIAN CONFESSES Georgetown Widow

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—County officers tonight said Edward Gaston, 44-year-old Montgomery county landlord, had confessed that he killed Pete McDowell, a tenant on his farm.

Gaston was quoted by the officers as saying he was slaying himself from a threat of McDowell's wife to expose their illicit love affair unless he got rid of her husband.

The confession, officers said, was made unexpectedly when the deputy and newspaperman went to Gaston's home in the country to question the prisoner concerning some sedative tablets he had taken.

W. Jett Laub, former secretary of the war labor board, asserted yesterday he was telling more than he was told.

CURB ON FUTURES IN GRAIN PIT ASKED

Duvel Says Huge Operations, Usually on Bear Side, Must Be Ended.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Supplementary legislation "providing for the imposition of reasonable limitations upon the daily volume of trading and open commitments of large professional speculators" was recommended today by the grain futures administration.

John T. Duvel, chief of the administration in his annual report to Secretary Hyde said: "It is fundamental that grain futures price quotations, upon which cash grain prices are based, should at all times truly reflect supply and demand conditions with respect to actual grain if the future market is to serve effectively its legitimate economic functions.

"Obviously, this result cannot be achieved if large professional operators are permitted to trade for purely speculative purposes in inordinate amounts, which it is impossible for the market readily to absorb."

"Substantial benefits to producers and consumers, both in the grain futures market, can be obtained by using the futures market for proper purposes should result from the elimination of the economic evils incident to market domination by a few powerful operators trading for speculative account."

Duvel noted that during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931, "large speculative traders operated principally on the short side of the wheat market," and the maximum net short position was 11,060,000 bushels, with an average net short position of 3,432,000 bushels during the entire 223-day trading period.

The price of wheat at Chicago, Duvel said, although established a "new,
all-time low record at that market," was approximately 13 cents a bushel above the normal Chicago-Liverpool price relationship.

name, it was reported.

Mayor Curley Visits
"Little White House"

MAJOR JAMES A. CURLEY, of Boston, one of the leading democratic figures in New England, arrived in Atlanta late yesterday morning to inspect the "Little White House" in Warm Springs.

According to her story, she had an engagement to go to the movies with one of the young men, but instead of starting for the show, the couple rode around town a while and picked up another man. They began to argue, and, just before reaching their home, the young men severely beat her and left her on the roadside. She was unable to give a coherent version of the ride, according to Grady doctors.

Mr. Curley will make a talk to-night at the fraternity banquet at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. Curley's session was to be followed by a business meeting at 10 o'clock, followed by a luncheon and the banquet.

After reaching Atlanta, the Boston mayor was driven in an automobile to the Merriweather county resort, calling at the "Little White House" early Friday night.

NEW STATE POLICE FORCE SUGGESTED

Jury, in Dynamiting Probe, Asked To Urge Move to Legislature.

With a view to increasing the efficiency of all law enforcement agencies, the Fulton grand jury was asked Friday to recommend to the state legislature the establishment of a state police force to work under the jurisdiction of the attorney-general.

Solicitor-General Claude Smith, of the Stone Mountain circuit, who was among six solicitors-general invited to appear before the grand jury to assist in the probe of statewide blasting of high tension power towers, made the recommendation. He suggested a state constabulary, partially modeled after similar organizations of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He said that such a force would have statewide police powers and would bridge over the limitations of law enforcement placed on sheriffs and county officers.

The other solicitors-general who were present in the grand jury room said they would place a similar recommendation before the grand juries of their circuits and promised co-operation in pushing the probe of the dynamiting. The grand jury was given details of the dynamiting in their respective territories and at the suggestion of the Fulton grand jury, F. E. Shumate, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, will appear before the state grand jury and present the solicitors and acquaint them with all details of the vandalism here and in other sections of the state.

The solicitors who appeared here Friday at the invitation of Solicitor-General Boykin and Attorney General Johnson were Clifford Pratt, Piedmont circuit; John C. Mitchell, Cherokee circuit; W. Y. Atkinson, Coweta circuit; S. W. Ragsdale, Talapoosa circuit; George Anderson, Blue Ridge circuit, and Solicitor Smith. In addition to sheriffs and two police chiefs attended. They were Jake Hall, of DeKalb county; E. L. Adamson, Clayton county; C. S. Griswell, Gwinnett county, and G. W. Gaddis, of Bartow, and Chiefs A. W. Lilly, of DeKalb, and George Matheson of Fulton county police.

INSULL'S BANK LOANS WILL BE EXAMINED

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Attorney Louis Jacobson for the creditors of the Insull Utilities company today obtained an order from Federal Judge Walter C. Lindner empowering him to examine conditions of loans made to the company by five New York banks and the General Electric Company.

No date was set for the hearing, at which lengthy the New York firms probably will be questioned.

The banks, the amount of their loans to the Insull company and the amount of collateral put up follows:

Guaranty Trust—$5,000,000, $7,000,472.

Central Hanover Bank and Trust Co.—$4,000,000, $5,496,418.

Commercial National Bank and Trust Company—$1,500,000, $1,949,702.

Irving Trust Co.—$5,000,000, $6,795,256.

Bankers' Trust—$500,000, $656,800.

General Electric Co.—$500,000, no collateral.

Among the officials Jacobson probably will call is Owen D. Young, of the General Electric Company.

After the crash of the Insull companies, all money on accounts of Insull companies in the five banks, was collected. The creditors hope to retrieve the sums in liquidation of the Insull utilities.

Alabama Ex-Senator Sentenced for Bribery

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 2.—(UPI)—State Senator Tom Jones was sentenced to serve from two to two and one-half years in the state penitentiary for demanding $250 as an "expense account" for passing a Sunday amusement bill at the recent session of the state legislature.

On reading out the sentence—the minimum of 18 months for such an offense—Judge Walter B. Jones, of the Montgomery circuit court, said: "I am aware there is a section of public sentiment in the state which expresses itself to the effect that no criminal action should be taken against you, because the amount of bribe you solicited by you was so utterly insignificant in comparison with other bribes which this section of public opinion believes to have been demanded and accepted in other matters before the legislature."

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Jones replied: "The jury has found me guilty, your honor, but I'm not guilty."

Jones was convicted last Sunday on a charge he solicited $250 as a "nominal expense account" from a Sunday theater manager for passing a Sunday amusement bill for that city. Previously he had resigned from the senate. He had been held in the county jail since Sunday.

EAGLE LOTTERY TRIAL IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Case Against Quartet Will Be Placed in Hands of Jury Today.

BY MORRIS WATSON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(UPI)—A plea from Louis Mead Treadwell, 29-year-old assistant United States attorney, brought the lottery prosecution of Conrad H. McGuire, James M. McGuire, C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh to a close in federal court late today.

The case will go to the jury tomorrow after a charge by Judge Frank J. Coleman.

Albert Guttinger, former attorney-general of New York, in his plea on behalf of Mann and Herino, called them "benefactors of mankind" and said that everybody connected with the Fraternal Order of Eagles, the raising enterprise behind the government charges, was a lottery benefactor.

Max D. Steuer, representing McGuire and Walsh, contended that there could be no conspiracy because the four defendants had no way of foretelling that the committee of Eagles would award the prizes on the basis of lot or chance.

"It has been said," said Treadwell when his turn for argument came, "that McGuire and these defendants didn't know how the prizes were to be awarded, but when they got them, they had to behold, there was a hat all ready, red, white and blue, with a little handle with which to turn it."

Treadwell explained to the jury that the only issue in the case "is whether these defendants participated in a scheme to send lottery tickets across state lines."

IF WAR SHOULD COME- and our RAILROADS a streak of RUST!

W. R. WRIGLEY

War upon us—and our armies entirely dependent upon highway transportation. Imagine such a condition!

Why, we would just as soon think of going on the battlefield today armed only with a javelin and spear as to attempt to defend the Nation without our far flung network of Railway systems behind our fighting forces.

Well, all right—that's admitted. So what's the idea of this fantastic thought?

Just this—

HOW WILL THERE BE ANY RAILROADS HERE IF WAR SHOULD COME UNLESS WE MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR THE RAILROADS TO STAY HERE? How can our Railroads remain IF WE MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THEM TO LIVE?

Of course, in reality, our Railroads will never wholly become a streak of rust but—BANKRUPTCY IS CERTAIN IF WE DON'T SUPPORT THEM. Then what? Well—the Government will have to take them over. The present huge Railroad taxes that largely keep our schools

open and many of our communities solvent WILL DIS-APPEAR!

And just as surely as night follows day Government ownership will mean one of two things. Either Railroad movements cut to the bone, service curtailed all along the line, trackage and equipment in all parts of the country abandoned and added multitudes thrown out of employment. Or, a staggering Railroad operating deficit piled onto the already breaking backs of the taxpayers.

One of those two things will have to happen because IF WE WILL NOT SUPPORT RAILROADS UNDER PRIVATE OWNERSHIP WE WILL NOT SUPPORT THEM UNDER GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

So, Government ownership is not the solution. It's simply the last recourse to save our Railroads from complete destruction—FROM ACTUALLY BECOMING A STREAK OF RUST. Public support is the only answer. We citizens—we shippers and travelers MUST GIVE THE RAILROADS OUR BUSINESS OR WE ARE GOING TO HAVE TO PAY THE COSTS.

We own the Railroads. Thirty million of us—one out of every four in the country has a definite stake in them and everyone else has an indirect interest. So, we are only protecting our own interests when we patronize the Railroads.

That's why we are making these public appeals. Not because of the Railroads as corporations but in the interest of the REAL RAILROAD OWNERS—all the holders of insurance policies, savings bank depositors, colleges, hospitals, charitable organizations, churches and the thousands upon thousands of individual direct owners of Railroad stocks and bonds.

And, most of all perhaps, we are appealing for the jobs of the TEN THOUSAND RAILROAD EMPLOYEES in Greater Atlanta under normal conditions and the big FOURTEEN MILLION DOLLAR NORMAL ANNUAL RAILROAD PAY ROLL distributed here.

Help save this tremendous industry that means everything toward our prosperity in peace and our very security in war. KEEP OUR RAILROADS ALIVE.

FOR YOUR OWN SELF INTEREST SUPPORT THE RAILROADS!

The co-operation of the following fair-minded, straight-thinking citizens is making this series of public appeals possible.

FORLORN RIVER :: :: :: Landowners. :: :: :: :: :: By Zane Grey

After returning from home, his talk with Ina fresh in his mind, Ben Ide called Nevada to him. "We're going to sell what wild horses we don't need for riding," he said, "and buy up some of these homesteads around here. We're going to be ranchers, and some day the land will be worth real money. Setter, dad, and some others are buying whatever they can get their hands on."

Looking over their new property, Ben exclaimed to Nevada, "We've fallen into hundreds of acres of the best land in this country! We'll let it lay fallow for a while. Savvy?"

"All right, pardner," said Nevada, "and that Modoc and I could tell you a reason, besides the drought, that makes these homesteaders so glad to shake the dust of Tule Lake."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Since the death of her husband 10 years previously, Mrs. Sayeed had been worth $60,000 by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous motor car which is known as the "Santini," who now, for the most part, the letters "O. K." traced on the windshields of Lejarre's index finger before they were wiped out as Lejarre had been times by substituting imitation gems. Mrs. Sayeed's daughter, Alicia, had unfortunately been born with one hand, and a pearl necklace before the arrival of an accomplice, Alicia recently had fallen in love with a Frenchman whom she learned later was Armand de Pas, Prince d'Orsay, poverty-stricken playboy, who had been known as a gigolo and a driver of racing cars, and who was a constant attendant on Monsieur Cabre and Etienne Lejarre, salesmen at Piron's jewelry shop, were members of the gang which had been brought together by substituting imitation gems. Mrs. Sayeed had just had fakes substituted for the real rubies in the necklace which she had given to Piron's to have them reset, and Cabre to the red rubies in the top box of the Elizabethan jewel case which she had given to the Prince. Armand had been arrested because he had been seen in the apartment of M. Piron, who was Armand's friend, as was M. Jessant, the prefect de police, who sent a note to the prefect, "Please go to look up Santini. He went to the telephone. Now go on with the story."

"Santini hardly listened to Lejarre's catechism. The man was admitting readily enough that he had been accompanied by Monsieur Armand to the safe on each of the occasions when Mrs. Sayeed's jewels had been deposited or removed. Now he did not know personally that he had merely helped to count the envelopes in which they were encased. He had never actually touched the stones themselves. The prefect confirmed this statement. The prefect, the man with whom he had been staying, had been arrested because he had been seen in the apartment of M. Piron, who was Armand's friend, as was M. Jessant, the prefect de police, who sent a note to the prefect, "Please go to look up Santini. He went to the telephone. Now go on with the story."

"They are real pearls," he said, "every valuable, real pearls. Armand, under the circumstances, you simply must have them."

"I am sorry, but that is something I am not at liberty to tell you," was the astonishing reply. "They were entrusted to me by someone. They are, I think, imitation." M. Piron, who had been running the necklace through his hands, shook his head.

"They are real pearls," he said, "every valuable, real pearls. Armand, under the circumstances, you simply must have them."

"I am sorry," said Armand dully, "but I cannot. However, I did not steal them, neither from this shop nor from any other. Their being in my possession is a purely personal matter."

"Armand, my boy," said the prefect firmly, "I have known you almost as I have my own sons. When you say these pearls were given to you I realize that you are probably speaking the truth, and under ordinary circumstances I would not care for you to be in trouble. But we are faced with a very serious situation. Before the news of the missing rubies came up, my old friend, Piron, told me about the theft of a pearl necklace from this shop. You were involved in it."

"I was involved!" exclaimed Armand, unmistakably horrified. "How?"

"The necklace you sold Miss Sayeed was not the same," he said. "It had been replaced by another. Armand, you must explain. We are determined, Jessant and I, to give you every possible chance. But if you won't help us, there may be serious consequences, don't you see?" Armand shook his head.

"I cannot understand it!" he muttered. "I must swear to you on my word of honor that I am as much in the dark as you are. But neither can I tell where this necklace came from. It is a point of honor."

"He's shielding some woman," exclaimed Piron. "Or I spent my youth without learning anything!" The prefect nodded.

"What can we do?" he asked.

"If he will not explain, nothing matter, up. I will have to make an arrest. Mon Dieu, Armand, do you realize what a position you are in?" Armand smiled ruefully.

"More than you think!" he replied.

"But you will have great difficulty in proving a charge against me, because I've done nothing."

"And I make no charge!" said Piron quickly. "I am already familiar with the pearl necklaces in stock and I can assure you that we have had nothing of this size and color. Moreover, the class is of American manufacture and the strings, which the pearls are strung, is frayed and stained with wear. The owner of this collar has worn it for a number of years. It is perfectly evident to me that he is shielding a woman, men, vice."

"I trust you are right, Piron," said the chief inspector. "At best it is an unpleasant mixup. But I have my duty to perform, none the less."

"Half an hour later M. Piron descended to his private office where Santini and Miss Sayeed were waiting with growing impatience.

"Have the rubies been found?" did the boy have them?" cried Mrs. Sayeed.

"No," he said wearily. "Your rubies have not been found, madame. But the circumstances have arisen, and M. Piron's department has been forced to make an arrest."

"De Pass?" asked Santini quickly.

"Continued Monday."

Boys' High Beats Tech High, 13-7, for City Prep Championship

A Gallant Crew--These Scrubs Who Make the Varsity What It Is.

Sentiment has come to be something of a bromide, but—

There was a long white table at the Capital City Club last night.

And about it sat 67 boys—Georgia Tech's freshmen and scrubs. They were having their annual banquet—none of your elaborate banquets—but an excellent one. Coach Mack Tharpe had supplied it—birds after a four-day hunt in south Georgia.

I wish the critics of football could have been there.

There were boys there who were making every sacrifice to attend school—and play football. And play the game because they like it. They know their lot is not to be the glory trail that the varsity man takes. One of the boys drives a cab at night, plays football and makes good grades. Others work at sandwich shops, as waiters and serve in other jobs. Anything to stay in school.

There were freshmen there. They had served with the scrub in making the varsity what it is. The scrub team is the football team.

Some of the boys had completed four years of scrubbing. Not one had played in a varsity game.

"I really don't know what it is that makes a boy as fine as these," said Coach Tharpe. "One has to be hard on them. They catch all the bawling-out, all the hard knocks. They learn one set of plays this week and another the next. They face the superior varsity every day. But they keep coming."

And there they were—67 of them; freshmen just coming along—scrubs hoping for next year—scrubs passing on after four years.

And at the finish Jack Adair stood up. "I want you freshmen to keep trying," he said. "I hope you all make the varsity next fall. Make it this spring. That's the time. The spring practice is the time. But if you don't, keep on trying. There isn't anything finer than to play for Tech and Coach Tharpe on the scrubs."

And then he handed Tharpe a present—a present for the man who had railed at them—who had tossed them in there in the varsity's mill every afternoon.

There was something in the sight of the scrub captain standing there urging the others on for other years that brought a stinging to the eyes; that caused throats to be cleared.

Sentiment is a bromide—but now and then it will out.

HE'LL BE THERE WHEN THE SANDS ARE COLD.

Mr. Mike Chambers, the Georgia Tech trainer, and an adventurous soul who has roamed the seven seas and the nations of the world, was reading a magazine.

A look of horror began to creep over Mr. Chambers' face. Some impolite person looked over Mr. Chambers' shoulder and discovered he was reading an article about the French Foreign Legion and the rigorous and dangerous life the members lead.

Mr. Chambers read on to the bitter end and then leaped to his feet with a cry of terror. "I was thinking of enlisting in the Foreign Legion," he said, "and I am horrified to find what I have missed."

The story of mutilation by the Arabs, of forced marches through the burning sand and fighting for four or five days at a stretch, had destroyed Mr. Chambers' idea of romance and beautiful damsels in distress.

A few moments later he was taping ankles and curing battered knees with much enthusiasm and contentment.

"KING" DOTY.

My experience with the Legion was obtained first hand from a young man named Bennett Doty who was very much in the international news some time ago when he escaped from the Legion, was sentenced to death and later to life and still later, after a newspaper man put the story into the newspapers of the United States, to 15 years' hard labor. He was released after serving a short time.

DOTY HAD BEEN IN CLASS WITH ME AT COLLEGE AND HAD SEEN SOME SERVICE WITH THE SPANISH FOREIGN LEGION. He left it because there was so much money issued to the Spanish legion and out of this the soldiers had to purchase their own bullets. I regret to say that most of them purchased wine and flowers for the ladies and had very few bullets to shoot at the enemy.

Bennet made his way to France on a cattle boat after a year at law school and enlisted in the French Foreign Legion. When he was back Mr. Doty and I went fishing in a leaky little boat in the sound at Biloxi. After listening to Mr. Doty I was able to give such pictures as "Beau Geste" a very loud Bronx cheer.

"THE KING" MAY BE THE FELLOW TELLING THIS STORY which Mr. Chambers was reading. I recall that he said when he was released from prison it was one afternoon about dusk and the legion regiment at the fort was standing retreat. And he said that as the bugle began his back involuntarily stiffened and his mind went back to those hot days on the desert with the Riffs charging, the machine guns stuttering and the tri-color of France whipping above his head. And he said that he stood at attention with the tears streaming down his face.

There may be something in it after all but I am afraid that Mr. Chambers is not available as a candidate for the legion. The sands of the desert may grow cold or flourish with verdant foliage but they will not know the tread of Mr. Chambers' dogs. The thought of an Arab lady with a knife at work on the wounded and of a sergeant shooting all those who look back was too much for Mr. Chambers.

GREAT PREP PLAY.

These new editions of prep football players have gone away past those of us who learned the football trade some 15 years or more ago.

There was more spirit, perhaps, in the old days. But the new prep team comes out with a lot of cold, hard facts all neatly assembled in its collective noggin and plays football.

There is none of the old hysteria or dying for dear old Yale in the modern football team from prep or high school.

Boys' High and Tech High played their annual game yesterday at Ponce de Leon park. There was excellent blocking, intelligent direction of play and splendid interference and kicking.

Norman Perry, a miniature edition of Stumpy Thomas, former Georgia Tech projectile, and not so much of a miniature at that, averaged about 40 yards on 10 punts. Just a lot of our better college kickers haven't done that well. Probably Perry wouldn't either, faced with college competition. It gets much tougher, as all prep stars learn when they enter college and start the job of trying to make the team. But still it was a splendid exhibition.

The impressive thing was the general play of the teams. It is but natural, considering the many college-trained players who are coaching at high schools. Few prep and high schools are without the services of trained and capable coaches. It was inevitable that the game should advance. And it all explains why

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—A few southern elevens have games this Saturday, including Alabama, which meets St. Mary's.

St. Mary's should appear to be stronger, and Alabama having lost two games will not have that high tide of enthusiasm which an undefeated season brings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—(AP)—Quations were lower in most financial markets today coincident with fresh weakness of sterling exchange.

For stocks, the ground lost was slightly more than had been gained yesterday and the average again scrapped the October bottom.

Stock losses amounted roughly to 1 to 3 points in a turnover of 655,000 shares.

Prices declined slowly but rather steadily. Rail and steel share offerings found buyers apathetic, although other quotations dropped down without up much fight. United States

Steel preferred lost nearly 4 points at the worst; the common's decline was not net. Standard Oil was downed by American Can. Allied

Chemical, American Telephone,

American Tobacco and Union Pacific;

smaller reactions occurred in Har-

racter, Bethlehem, DuPont, Penn

Gas, Motor, Motor, Soo, and

Loew's each giving up a point.

Absence of nearby support, for sterling, probably reflects the effect of a payment on English finances, caused sympathetic easiness in other foreign currencies. Bar silver touched a record low at 25 cents an ounce and COTC money was off to another new minimum.

General Electric Company's board of directors, like that of Westinghouse earlier in the week, announced no action toward distribution of the company's radio corporation stock, but declined 10 cents, a common share.

Auburn Automobile also voted usual payments in both cash and stock.

Foreign Markets.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON—After opening quiet and steady with slight improvement, prices on the stock exchange reacted due to profit-taking, and exchanges were closed.

PARIS—Although trading was still quiet, the market displayed a slight ly better tendency. Some internationals recovered fractionally and the closing was modest.

BERLIN—Confidence returned on the house owing to the appointment of General von Sechelles as chancellor. The closing was very strong.

Bank Statements.

Bank clearings at 47 leading cities of the United States for the week ending November 30 totaled $3,659,917,

000. This is 10 per cent more than the preceding week, 44.7 per cent

below the week ending December 3,

1931. Due to a shift in the reporting date, this year's total covers the Thanksgiving day holiday, but last year's does not. Allowing for this the decline from last year is 34.1 per cent, similar to the preceding week of last year.

This, however, is contrary to the normal expectation of a rise. The index, compiled by Bradstreet's, Willins, is 43.9 to 43.9, or 0.1 per cent of the 1928-30 average. A year ago the index stood at 60.4.

ings by cities for this week and last,

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(P)—Although a few specialties jumped about erratically, the bond market generally was without form or substance today and the majority of prices eased fractionally.

The trading volume was slightly under that of yesterday, sales totaling only $8,347,000, par value. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate bonds sagged one-tenth of a point.

Foreign bonds reflected uneasiness regarding sterling, but early losses in this group were partly recovered in the transactions. The British Government bonds, the most active in the market, 1-1/2s, the most active of the Europeans, closed unchanged. There was a flurry in the transactions, some of the republied obligations gaining as much as 5 points on a few sales.

In the domestic department, the heaviest turnovers were in Baltimore & Ohio 1-1/2s and Sinclair, Lamour & Co. 1-1/2s and the ones showing receipt of part payment under the refunding plan, advanced 3-1/4 points. The Armour issue lost a point, and the oil maturity was off only 1/4.

High grade issues of all categories continued to maintain a relatively firm tone.

United States government bonds followed a narrow range in dull trading.

Investors in this section were rather cautious pending announcement of the treasurer's December financing terms.
